

Lady Oddfellows

SOCIETY PAPERS

EXPERIENCE SOMETHING DIFFERENT

A SCANDALOUS INTRODUCTION

Dear Gentle Reader of Marketing Stockport,

Gather 'round, for I bring you the most scandalous news of the season! A new figure has emerged from the depths of Cape Town, South Africa, and landed upon the quaint shores of the United Kingdom, stirring whispers of excitement and intrigue amongst the elite of Oddfellows on the Park.

Allow me to introduce you to the enigmatic Ernest van Sitters, the latest addition to the illustrious cast of characters at the Victorian Luxury Boutique Hotel – Oddfellows On The Park - known far and wide for its 22 resplendent rooms, 4 enchanting meeting and event spaces, and not one, but TWO tantalising destinations to whet the palate - the Stud Bar and the Galloping Major Restaurant.

But what's this? A twist in the tale, you say? Indeed! Ernest's journey to Oddfellows on the Park reads like a romantic novel, filled with sacrifice and devotion. In a true act of gallantry, he abandoned his post back home to stand by the side of his beloved wife, Dr. Megan Robertson, as she embarked on a career quest at the University of Leeds. Oh, the sacrifices we make for love!

Now, dear readers, let us delve into the heart of the matter - what lured our adventurous protagonist to the role of Director of Sales at Oddfellows on the Park? Why, it was none other than the allure of the extraordinary! Ernest was captivated by the promise of something truly unique, something daringly different, offered by the Oddfellows Collection. It's no surprise, considering his illustrious background orchestrating grand events at the Cape Town International Convention Centre and Messe Frankfurt South Africa.

And let us not forget the pièce de résistance - the Galloping Major Restaurant! Under the expert guidance of Head Chef Paul Cooney and his culinary wizards, this is where dreams are spun and gastronomic delights abound. Ernest's personal recommendation? The Afternoon Tea with a pot of Celebration Cake Tea - this is a smooth, naturally sweet black tea with hints of cake, cream & strawberries. It's a feast fit for royalty, my dears!

But what of Ernest's grand vision for Oddfellows on the Park, you ask? Fear not, for he dreams of redefining hospitality by embracing the extraordinary, elevating revenue through unparalleled experiences, and championing sustainability and eco-tourism like a modern-day hero. He believes it's the hotel's business to ensure that every guest who crosses the threshold is in for a delightful surprise. After all, why settle for the mundane when you can revel in the extraordinary?

So, my dear readers, join me in raising a toast to Ernest van Sitters, the newest sensation to grace the halls of Oddfellows on the Park. With him and the new Hotel Manager, Tracy Smith, at the helm, the future of luxury hospitality in Stockport shines brighter than ever before!

Yours in scandal and intrigue,

Lady Oddfellows

ODDFELLOWS
ON THE PARK | CHEADLE

For meetings, events or a showaround, contact Ernest van Sitters (Director of Sales)
ernest@oddfellowsonthepark.com | +44(0)7458055633